

The teenage years have always been known as the time to get a driver's license. In the articles the author shares information about how teen drivers are not interested in getting their driver's licenses at the age of 16. There are several reasons these drivers are willing to wait awhile until they get their driver's licenses.

First of all, young people are more aware of keeping the environment clean and they are more willing to use city transportation like buses or share costs with a service like Uber. In the text, it states that city buses are revising their schedules according to school starting times, to make it more convenient for students to ride city buses to get to school.

Additionally, Uber offers discounts to students if they use their services for school purposes.
